If we receive more than 5 entries for some race, then there will be preliminary heats in the morning. In that case there will be a final A – deciding the first five places and a final B – deciding the subsequent places. Even if there are more than 10 entries for some race, there will only be finals A and B.

The table below shows the definitive order of the races, but only indicative times. We will send the final times together with the draw.
